Margaret Horne Bown

Drawing, painting, and crafting have been in my life as long as I can remember. My first art class was at five years old. That experience opened my eyes to activities and a way of looking at the world that has brought great joy into my life. I would say that my style is “sort of realistic”. You can tell what it is, but it’s not like a photo. It’s just what comes out of my head and hand. My subjects vary as my interests do. I love the world around me and am always finding beauty and a sense of humor within it. I like to work in oils and watercolor. However, this past year I have been enjoying the “doodle” craze. This has been a real lot of fun. Your imagination can go wild. There’s no right or wrong way to doodle. You can relax and draw where your mind takes you. Give it a try, it’s so enjoyable and good for the brain.
