FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

South Jordan Mayor to Speak at the National Governors Association Conference

SOUTH JORDAN, UT – South Jordan’s first female mayor, Dawn Ramsey, was the only Utah mayor invited to speak as a part of a panel at the National Governors Association Conference on July 24th at the Grand America Hotel in downtown Salt Lake City.

“It is what must be the most intimidating assignment I have ever received, but I am deeply honored to be asked and look forward to this amazing opportunity” said Mayor Ramsey.

Mayor Ramsey was invited by the office of Governor Gary Herbert to speak and participate in a panel called “Women in Government: Honoring the 19th Amendment.”

With the upcoming 100th anniversary of the passing of the 19th Amendment, this session will commemorate this milestone of democracy and highlight how it is in practice today.

Mayor Ramsey does her part by encouraging Boy Scouts and the South Jordan Youth Council, which includes several girls, to continue to be involved throughout their lives.

“I encourage them to never take the right to vote for granted,” she said.

The Mayor will be speaking on a panel with Kansas Governor Laura Kelly, Chief of Staff for the Governor of North Carolina Kristi Jones, and Managing Director of Government Relations for Deloitte Heidi Green.

The National Governors Association is a nonpartisan organization representing all 55 states and territories. The organization was founded in 1908 and considers itself one of the most respected public policy organizations in the country.
